

Area 33 Sunday Lunch – September, Little Hallingbury Mill

The first of our autumn Sunday lunches was to Little Hallingbury Mill at Gaston Green. The “Old Mill by the Stream” is tucked away down a narrow lane alongside the River Stort with views to match.

I got the timing a little wrong and our table was not available until 1.00pm, but Tony, Anthea and Mary, Terry & Trish, Norman & Irene, Peter & Brenda, Tony & Sian with Linda & Eric whiled away the time with a few drinks beforehand in the pleasant bar area, complete with mill wheel.

Within the mill, which is also an hotel, is the Wild Hart Restaurant on the first floor above the bar; the menu featuring a few gamey options. Venison Kofta and Trio of Game Meats and Duck Pate were favourites, but Heirloom Tomato salad and Baked Camembert were also available. Mains included Roast Topside of Beef, Whole Roast Partridge and Three Bird Roast, all nicely served with vegetables etc.

Service was a little slow on desserts but the Blackcurrant Bakewell Tart with Clotted Cream was well worth waiting for and the Cheeseboard looked good except it didn't have any Blue Cheese until Anthea complained and an additional plate of Blue cheese was duly provided on the house!

All in all a very pleasant meal amongst good friends.

See you next time.
Eric
